THE LUSITANIA MAILS.

The Lusitania brings London papers of 19th ult., being four days later than we had per Coleridge. The most important matter they contain is a summary of Mr. Lidderdale's statement of the progress of the Baring liquidation. This shews that in spite of the tremendous efforts to induce John Bull to take the River Plate securities off the hands of the Baring guarantors, the British public refuses to be fooled.

The assets on Feb. 29th, 1892, compared with those of May, 1891, were as follows:—

	May, 1891.	Feb. 1892
R. Plate Stocks	7,906,000	7,868,000
House-property	982,000	984,000
Sundries	2,975,000	1,487,000
Total	11,863,000	10,339,000

The liabilities were as follows:—

Due to Bank of England	7,509,000	6,929,000
Sundries.....	828,000	89,000
Total.....	8,337,000	7,018,000

Thus in 9 months the guarantors have only sold £40,000 of River Plate stocks, and this leads us to infer that in Dec. 1893 they will still have on hand £7,800,000, which it will be impossible to dispose of for one-fourth of that sum. In a word, the assets cannot be said to represent really more than £4,000,000 sterling, to meet liabilities of £7,000,000.

It remains to be seen how an inevitable deficit of £3,000,000 is to be met. Baring's creditors are all right, but the Bank of England, the Rothschilds, &c., are in an extremely unpleasant position.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

FINANCIAL.

THE "ECONOMIST" ON THE SITUATION.

(From our own Correspondent.)

March 19th.

Argentine securities are rather lower. Some attribute the check to the fact that Sr. Uriburu has declined to be a stop-gap Minister of Finance. Señor Uriburu's presence in the Argentine Administration would doubtless have had a good effect in London, but from what I see the real reason for the slight fall of Argentines is Mr. Lidderdale's speech, which, now that the public have had time to scan it narrowly, is found to be less satisfactory than was at first imagined. Some bitter things have already been said in regard to Mr. Lidderdale's persistently roseate view of the Baring liquidation, six millions of the assets being still locked up in Argentines and Uruguays.

The Echo thinks that if Mr. Lidderdale has private information from B. Ayres leading him to take a hopeful view, he should let us know what it is. If in the face of mere probabilities, variously appreciated by the outside world, Mr. Lidderdale is like the rest of us, only hoping for the best, your contemporary thinks his method suggestive of a promoter, and unsuited to the dignity of a Governor of the Bank of England. "Apart" says this day's Economist, "from temporary considerations, it must be held that a rise or fall in Argentine securities is only warranted by an improvement or otherwise in the financial condition of the State. The Bank of England as trustee for the Baring guarantors may dispose of some of the £5,820,000, Argentine stocks or some of the Uruguay stocks, and an improvement, may thereby accrue to the guaranteed estate That is a question for the guarantors who will, doubtless, experience material relief from the knowledge that the liabilities, which at the close of February reached some £7,018,000, are further covered. But the transfer of those securities from Barings to a syndicate or syndicates, or even to the general public, does not enable the Argentine or Uruguayan Governments the better to pay their way. "....." It cannot be held that the prospects of the River Plate Republics are improving. In the Argentine Confederation there has now been a cessation from cash payments to the majority of the public creditors for upwards of a year, and this arrangement was entered into for the express purpose of enabling the State to avoid, for a certain time, the external drain upon its resources, and above all to reduce the paper currency within more manageable limits. Well, what has been done? The funding of the coupons has in reality increased the debt; but the paper currency appears in no wise reduced and its depreciation, though not as heavy as it was some months ago, is still very great, the dollar being worth no more than 1/8d. The scheme for the establishment of a new National Bank is a favorite one with States in financial difficulties; but it is not advisable to place much reliance upon its being able to ameliorate the situation. And as for Señor Saenz Peña's programme of what reforms he will seek to institute when he becomes President of the Republic, one has heard before this of so many good resolutions on the part of those seeking power that we are apt to become sceptical in regard to them. "....."

Your contemporary then goes on to show that what is wanted is that the Argentine Republic like that of Uruguay should make a wholesale composition with its creditors, but at the same time, the Economist does not seem to have a robust faith in the will or power of Uruguay to adhere to its "composition" for "it must not be forgotten that Uruguay has effected other compositions before this one and has not been able to adhere to them."

Then comes the sting which we saw protruding from the tail of the article from the first. "Of one thing, says the Economist," we may be sure, the important financial institutions which have done so much towards bringing about the fiasco in the River Plate will seek to keep this composition effective for some time to come. If too, efforts are to be made to place further amounts of Argentine and Uruguayan stocks with the ultimate holders it is essential for the profitable outcome of trust companies and syndicate operations that all should go swimingly on for some time to come. Hence the increased probability that in the immediate future there will be a good deal said in favour of River Plate securities, and the present movement in prices will not be suffered to die out. There is too much depending upon it. But it is only right that the public should be placed in possession of the facts, and should not be led away by market movements which may result from a pulling of the strings on this side rather than from an improvement in the situation in South America. We would therefore very strongly advise investors not to suffer themselves to be beguiled either by manipulation of market prices or by the organised dissemination of sanguine reports and prognostications into relieving those now loaded up with those securities of their burden. They should be left to carry it, at all events until some better idea as to the future course of events can be formed."

The Economist has also an article on the "Collapse in Argentine Commerce" founded on the statistics of 1891 compared with 1890, as in the official returns. Your contemporary concludes by reminding the Argentine Government that "the new obnoxious duties and taxation have had the expected effect of hampering trade rather than augmenting revenue."

The Statist, once so eager to revile, is to-day comparatively mute. If anything it is rather in favour of the "Governor" and the "houses."

Lovely spring weather. The sudden change is like a transformation scene. No regular mail to R. Plate next week!

LATEST FROM RIO.

April 5th.

The new stamp-tax on tobacco, which went into operation on the 1st inst., has caused much dissatisfaction. Tobacco merchants say that the execution of the regulations is not feasible.

The Jornal do Commercio says the department of the interior has secured documents more than sufficient to justify a delay in the execution of the sanitary treaty with Argentina and Uruguay.

On the 4th it was stated that Sr. Militao Maximo de Souza Netto, the grandson of the first Barao de Andarahy, who was well known and highly respected in Rio, had left suddenly for the United States. An honorable name destroyed by speculation.

On the 29th ult. at 10 o'clock a.m. a lighter loaded with coffee in the Pedro II. docks was attacked by thieves and the police; the sword of the commander of the latter was broken by a bullet. The thieves were all captured.

Among the new plans of the acting Minister of the Interior are two that deserve every commendation; the one is to establish a new general cemetery—the Minister calls it a "necropolis"—which, with the annual epidemics, appears to be necessary, and the other is the removal of the hearse deposit from the Rua do Conde d'Eu.

A pharmacist here claims to have discovered a certain cure for yellow fever. The treatment consists of large doses of belladona, repeated until evidences of poisoning appear, when the usual antidotes for belladona are exhibited and the patient is relieved. It reminds one of the doctor who gave all his patients convulsions, because he knew he could cure these; but there may be more in the belladonna treatment than in that of "fits."

We see by the Shipping Gazette that two new steamers have been built on the Tyne for the Banco Constructor do Brazil for the frozen meat trade on this coast. They are not of the largest size, but it is a mystery all the same what a Brazilian company is going to do with them. As Brazil cannot get meat enough to feed her own people without importing it, how can it be expected to find anything to export. But, on second thought, perhaps Sr. Mayrink intends to import frozen meat from Argentina for the hungry citizens of this fortunate country, who will therefore be enabled to devote all their time and energies to the political organization of the republic.

The Leopoldina failure and the Geral imbroglio will prove most excellent "report" operations to the lawyers engaged on the respective sides. The "bag" will, of course, be held by the creditors.

On the 30th there was a fight on Rua do Ouvidor between the partizans of two rival labor organizations.

In consequence of an examination into the affairs of warehouse No. 15 in the custom-house here disclosing irregularities (sic), the inspector has suspended the employé in charge and his assistant, and all the labourers employed in the warehouse have been dismissed.

On the 29th ult. three policemen, after jesting for some time with a postman, carried him off to a police station. Another postman, who called at the station to inquire into the cause of his companion's arrest, was also locked up, and the two were detained at the station till 8 o'clock at night. One of the postmen arrested is a police officer himself, being an "inspector do quarteirão."

A man from Ouro Preto, Minas Geraes, has complained to the local press that he received here a considerable amount in notes of the Banco da Republica, but as the Treasury agency in Ouro Preto refuses to change this currency, and speculators charge 10 per cent for changing them, he tried in vain to obtain current funds for his money.

PROVINCIAL NEWS.

There was a scarcity of news and exchanges yesterday from the provinces. We presume that everything is quiet. A few telegrams were, however, received conveying a few scraps of news. In Tucuman they have had an earthquake, a genuine one, so genuine that people rushed out of their houses and took refuge in the public squares. The greatest alarm prevailed. Women and children shrieked and men ran about like maniacs, without the slightest idea of where they were going. There was general confusion. The police were quite as panic-stricken as the people, and as for the high dignitaries they lost their heads completely, when they discovered that the shock was not caused by a dynamite explosion. Judges and deputies rushed into the plaza like common mortals. After some hours' anxious expectation of the approaching end of the world, and seeing that nothing extraordinary followed the shock, the good Tucumanos crept back to their houses. The shock is described as being of great intensity, the vibration being very strong.

In regard to the revolutionary rising in Corrientes, nothing beyond a manifesto by the leader Blanco is known. This manifesto is quite a singular document. It runs as follows:—

"We do not rise in the name of any political party. We rise in the name of our right to live, a right that to Argentines means the duty of living honorably. We declare before God and before men that we are sincerely convinced that, in acting thus, we are saving from ignominy the revered name of our country and the immortal banner of the Republic, in the humble sphere in which we represent that name and that banner; and we furthermore declare that we prefer being exterminated by force to bowing like vile slaves to the yoke of infamy which it is being endeavored to place upon us. I am authorized by the people of Misiones to head an armed movement of protest and to lay before the country the expression of their will and their sentiments. I fulfill this duty, which I consider a sacred one, and I ask the national and foreign newspapers in the country to expose the cause of a people which rises in desperation against an official scourge, and which desires to live in a manner worthy of itself, of the country it loves, and of humanity which it respects.

"I think it my duty, moreover, to state—since I have been honored with the mission I have mentioned—that if the National Government need a victim for the principle of authority as a preliminary for suppressing this violent situation and granting the petition of the people of Misiones, one word from that Government will be sufficient to arrest this movement, and I offer myself to undergo the sentence which the Nation through its laws may pronounce on me as being myself responsible for the present rising.

"A people cannot err, and if it be a crime to take up arms to defend our rights, our honor and our lives, then I assume the responsibility of this crime before God, before my country and before history.

Angel S. Blanco.

CRUISE OF THE ARGENTINA.

CHAPTER V.

The passage of Venus. The summer in Orange Bay. The gardens of the Mission.

The 6th of December 1882 was a day impatiently waited for; on that day ought to take place the passage of Venus across the sun's disc, and to observe which eight special French commissions had to be sent to America. From an astronomical point of view the most favourable position for a good observation was, without doubt, the most southern part of the Cape Horn Archipelago, but the idea had been given up of including that locality among the number of places originally selected, on account of its unfavorable climatic, conditions, which, according to the most authentic records, there were only 10 to 15 per cent of probabilities in favor of good weather during the month of December. However, to take advantage of the happy probability if realized, the Cape Horn Mission had been provided with the necessary instruments to observe the passing of the planet.

The 6th of December was rainy, and from early morning the observations of the passage of Venus looked seriously compromised. However, at the prescribed hour all ere was at their posts ready to perform the duty previously assigned to them, and we had the good fortune to see the clouds clear off and the sun come out at the necessary moment. The operations were so successful that it was a motive for rejoicing for the members of the mission. We were then in the period of the long days in full summer season in the southern hemisphere, but on Cape Horn there is no summer proper, or at least no comparatively warm season. In fact the mean temperature for the month of December of 1882, one of the least cold months of the year, was 7·9° centigrade (46 Fahr.), while that of June the coldest month, it has not fallen below 2·2° centigrade (36° Fah.) It is clear that the greatest difference between the monthly temperatures is not more than 5° centigrade (9° Fah.) Probably it is chiefly to this circumstance we must attribute our small success in our attempt at gardening. Unfortunately, besides the unfavourable climatic conditions in these attempts at cultivation, we had against us the condition of the soil, which is composed everywhere in our vicinity of marshes or decayed vegetation; and where there was such an accumulation of woods interlaced that it was difficult work clearing it; besides this kind of land was so saturated with water that it was necessary to dig trenches to allow the excess of dampness to run off. In spite of these difficulties we selected a small spot in a grove near the mission to give cultivation a trial. After having extracted the roots of a large number of 'fagus betuloidas' and dug deep trenches surrounding a square plot which we had cleared, we sowed different seeds on this land, beans, peas, cabbages, radishes, parsley etc. Almost at the same time we made another attempt at gardening in a place at the sea side in very sandy soil; there we sowed nearly the same variety of seeds and a few potatoes. To our great surprise we had a small crop from these potatoes. The other vegetables came through too, and this was all the result we obtained. In our garden in the wood we were still more unfortunate, because none of the vegetables could come to maturity. Six miles further North, however, the English Mission cultivates with some success for their own consumption a variety of vegetables, and the natives here have large plots of them. But to obtain this result it requires enormous work to clean and dry the soil; besides, the land on the shores of Beagle Channel is for purposes of cultivation very superior to that of Orange Bay. Without doubt we could have found within two or three miles of our establishment, for example, small spots appropriate for sowing, but we couldn't think of utilizing these places owing to the difficulties presented by the distance. If, from the point of view of our attempts to cultivate, we cannot praise the summer season, and if besides this the summer-like winter has so many days of rain and snow and hail, on the other hand it has long days, and the flowering of the plants, some of which have brilliant colours, such as the golden flower of Berberis; the comparative facility for making excursions, contributed to make us appreciate the summer months. In this period during the shortest nights, day breaks at 2 a.m. and continues until 10 p.m., and even the interval between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m. is more twilight than the darkness of night. At this period of the year we had a visit from the members of the English Mission at Ushuaai which, at our invitation, came in two groups, to pass a few days in our establishment, the first from the 17th and the 20th November and the second in Jan. 1883.

CHILE.

It is our painful duty to record the murder of another English colonist living in the neighbourhood of Victoria. On Friday evening, the 11th instant, shortly, after sundown, three Chilians on horseback rode up to the house of the colonist named Edward Blashfield Jones, residing near Adencul, (situated about midway between Victoria and Traiguen) and asked for some wine. Jones's son Albert, about 20 years of age, and who was the only other inmate of the house, went to the door and told the men that they did not sell anything there. They then asked for coffee, which was also denied, upon which two of the ruffians jumped off their horses and one of them said 'ahora', at the same time dealing young Jones a blow on the head, which stunned him for some time. When he came again to consciousness he found his hands tied behind his back and his father lying weltering in blood, and the murderers ransacking the house. About this time the wife of a German colonist, named Ruit, was passing with a dog, and, hearing a row in the house, she hid among some bushes; but her dog began to bark. This no doubt disturbed the ruffians, as one of them shouted: "there are people coming," and they all hurriedly mounted their horses and made off. As they were passing over the prostrate body of young Jones, one asked if they would shoot him, but the leader exclaimed: "leave him alone." When young Jones asked his father to untie his hands the latter only lifted up his hands, but never spoke. The son, however, unloosed himself and gave the alarm, and several neighbours came to their assistance. It was discovered that the father had been most brutally ill-treated about the head. The frying-pan was evidently used, and was knocked out of shape, and two lead balls, each weighing about half a pound, were afterwards found on the floor, but the lassoes to which they had been attached were broken off. Jones's skull was fractured in several places, while the murderers had also dealt two blows on his left temple, and his left shoulder was frightfully smashed with a hatchet. In fact, when we saw his body, we would not have recognized him, such gross brutality having been used by the assassins. Robbery was the motive for the murder, as the cash box containing a number of valuable articles (including the late Mrs. Jones's gold chain and brooch) was carried away, along with a rifle and a lot of clothes. Suspicion falls upon a former native servant, who has a sore eye which he always had tied round with a handkerchief. He is the leader of a gang of six who loiter about without doing any work. One morning, about six weeks previous to the murder, this fellow stole Jones's double barrel gun, and he had been overheard to threaten that later on he would attack them and rob this cash box. Hearing of this they sought and obtained soldiers for a night or two to guard the house.

Jones never regained consciousness, and died about daylight the following morning. The son sustained injuries in several places on the head, arms, and legs; but he is now recovering.

Deceased was a most quiet, inoffensive man, 54 years of age, a native of Hereford, England. On Monday, his remains were interred in the cemetery at Victoria, the funeral being attended by a large number of friends.—Chilian Times.

AGRICULTURE IN THE ARGENTINE.

Consul Bridgett's report for the year 1891 on the agricultural condition of the Argentine Republic is rather disappointing—not in respect of what it records, but of what it does not record. A full and particular account of the agriculture of the Argentine would be at this moment an especially valuable document; but Mr. Bridgett supplies us with nothing of the kind. He is a statistical needy knifegrinder. His report contains a vast deal of learning, annexed from "The Financial Review of the River Plate," about grain elevators; but about Argentine agriculture: "Story, God bless you! he has none to tell, sir," except in a few vague generalities. Perhaps this is due, as Mr. Bridgett says, to the absence of reliable statistics as to the amount of ground under cultivation, and the yield thereof, which renders all estimates of crops liable to great errors. Perhaps he is a little too early in the field. His report is dated January 2nd., and such figures as he gives are up to September 30th. only. Mr. Bridgett's report for 1890 issued in March, 1891, was much more exhaustive, instructive and valuable. During the past fifteen years a vast change has come over Argentine agriculture. The country is, in fact, passing from the pastoral stage to the agricultural stage, and whereas fifteen years ago the Argentines imported large quantities of wheat from Chili and flour from the United States, the probable supply available for exportation is now taken into account by buyers in Europe. Reckless land speculation a few years ago imposed a serious check on the progress of Argentine agriculture. Land was heavily mortgaged at fictitious valuations, and the area under cultivation fell off in an alarming way. During the three years ending with 1890 it was estimated that the province of Buenos Ayres reduced its cultivated area by 42 per cent, although this was set off by the addition of some 500,000 hectares—one hectare is equal to 2.47 acres—to the cultivated area of Santa Fé, Cordoba, and Entre Rios. It would have been interesting to know how far these figures have undergone revision during 1891; but Mr. Bridgett does not recur to them.

Last year we had an interesting and useful table of the land under cultivation, its probable yield, the quantity of produce likely to be available for export, and its value; but this year we merely get the information that the yield of wheat has been fairly good. A much larger area has now been cultivated, and well-informed persons think that about 500,000 tons will be available for exportation. New wheat, however, is only just coming to market, and it is too early to speak of the maize crop, which will not be gathered until March or April, and which, it may be added, has suffered a good deal from the ravages of locusts. The export of wheat, we may here recall, was in 1890 327,894 tons, against 22,806 tons in 1889, and against 1,166 tons in 1881. Up to September 30, 1890, 301,000 tons had gone forward. In 1890, 707,281 tons of maize were shipped, against 432,591 tons in 1889, and against 25,052 tons in 1881. As to flour and linseed the present report is silent; indeed, at every paragraph one is tempted to reflect how much more excellent and valuable a return might have been prepared a few month later. On general lines Consul Bridgett's report tends to strengthen the belief that exists in the immense value of the agricultural resources of Argentina. But agriculture seems to have been sadly neglected in the past. The methods adopted by the Argentine farmer are primitive in the extreme, and many of his appliances are antediluvian, although in both respects a considerable improvement is to be remarked.

One good harvest in three is supposed to amply repay the farmer; but there is no doubt that good farming can greatly mitigate the risks to which the farmer is exposed, and so much increase his chances of profit. The soil of the country is eminently suited to agriculture, and, with increased cultivation, the droughts that are at present a terrible scourge will become a less serious object of consideration, for the rainfall will enter the ground instead of running off the surface. Railway extensions and improved steamship accommodation are playing an important part in the development of the Argentine export trade, which, on the other hand, is greatly impeded by the absence of proper stores. English buyers are apt to receive cargoes from Argentina in all classes of condition This has led to many disputes, and allowances of as much as 8s. per quarter have had to be made on arrival. The fact is, the wheat is harvested in the most primitive manner, being left on the ground or in stacks without proper protection from the weather, and when threshed put into bags without attempt at classification. As the farmers have no barns or accommodation for storage, it is carted to the nearest railway station, where it again lies for days and sometimes weeks, exposed to sun and rain. In the reform of these defects grain elevaters, such as Consul Bridgett describes at great length, are destined to play an important part—concerning which we may just say that the elevator is not a lift, but a warehouse. With the progress of agriculture there has sprung up an enormous demand for agricultural implements, which America is smartly supplying. The English manufacturer obstinately refuses to send out implements that are suited to the peculiarities of the Argentine farmer. If we are to believe Her Majesty's Consuls in the remote corners of the earth, it is a characteristic of the English trader that he will not inform himself of the needs of his customers, and persistently sends scorpions when he is asked for bread. It is a characteristic which the English trader should overcome.—Financial News 29th. Febr.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The holidays were a poem as far as weather and outdoor enjoyment was concerned, although the first frost of the season made its appearance on Friday night. Never before were the ceremonies in the churches performed with greater pomp and solemnity, and never have we seen such vast crowds attending them. We much regret to have to add that never before was the "jovenes" element more unruly and irreverent in its conduct, chiefly at San Francisco church, where many ladies fainted owing to the bad conduct of gangs of well-dressed young rowdies. The police did all they could, but the crowds were so great in that church that their efforts to preserve decorum were in vain. Except in San Francisco and Santo Domingo churches, there were no unpleasant scenes, and the young men behaved with decorum.

The papers to hand by the Lusitania say that the German Emperor has signified his intention to enter The Meteor, formerly known as The Thistle, in the race for the Queen's Cup in Cowes Regatta, and will, according to present arrangements, sail his yacht in person.

There is a tremendous freshet in the Parana, and all the islands up the river have disappeared, a state of affairs not seen for a long time.

In Montevideo on Thursday and Friday they had the same rowdyism in the churches as here; but the police used the flats of their swords on the young scamps and drove them from the Cathedral door, whereupon a volley of stones and rotten eggs was fired at them. Many ladies fainted in the Plaza and all the rest fled in terror. The Chief of Police at the head of the Cabildo guard had to act vigorously to restore order.

An evening colleague says that, in his Message on opening Congress, President Pellegrini will dwell on home politics and foreign affairs, and only as little as possible on finance. In other words, will leave out the part of Hamlet.

The Volunteer National Guards will march from Palermo to Plaza Victoria this morning; and those who wish to see them must tumble out of bed early.

If any of our readers meditates going to Europe and has a well-furnished house in town or near town we can inform him of a good tenant, if the house suit, by calling at this office.

The following are our selections for to-day's races at Palermo:—

Premio Mercurio—Adjutant or Spree
" Vulcano—Fergus or Tala
" Casares—Petite Ecurie
" Vesta—Don Carlos
" Astrea—Lumen or Almirante
" Atlanta—Pillo
" Urania—Niobe

We beg to direct the attention of our readers to the advantages offered by the evening classes at the Scotch School, to be resumed for the season on Monday. Particulars will be found in our advertising columns.

The Princess Victoria of Wales is going to be married, and is making a far better match than her eldest sister. She will be a Grand Duchess. You will find the happy man's name in the Galvaston telegrams, ladies. We know you rarely read them, but when matrimony is in question, it's your bounden duty to rush at them.

Money's "Own Insider" refers as follows to the financial condition of the country of our adoption:—"Pessimists say that of all the forlorn hopes ever led, an attempted boom in Argentines is the most certain to fail in its object. Any expression of such heresy is, of course, flying in the face of the powers that be. The Barings will not agree with it; the Murrietas will not agree with it; Mr. Lidderdale will be pained; the guaranteeing bank managers ostensibly incredulous. All the same, no labour of Hercules, not even the cleansing of the Augean Omnibus Company's stable, was ever in the same street with the difficulty of starting a boom in Argentines. Well, most foreigners and all South Americans have yet to learn that honesty must be paid for with a good salary, and temptations removed. It is bad policy to enlist the services of thirsty waiters when dispensing '34 port and guinea-a-place strawberries at a public dinner. That which goes on at Buenos Ayres used to flourish in the early days of the East India Company."

Major Barritt, of the Salvation Army, requests us to thank the kind friends who left the donations of $20 and $1 at the Herald office.

The Telegraph-Telephone Company of the River Plate sent us yesterday the agreeable intelligence that Government has abolished the intervention in its office, and Mr. Todo-el-Mundo can now wire and speak his thoughts as freely as if he were in old England itself.

The "Sociedad de Socorros Mutuos entre Orientales" will celebrate its anniversary on the 3rd prox. with a literary and musical entertainment, for which we augur a brilliant success.

The Naturalization of Foreigners scheme across the water has been wisely tossed into the w. p. b. It was merely the idea of a few faddist Deputies, and President Herrera having pronounced it a humbug, the scheme is now as dead as mutton, beef or veal—'tres cosas buenas', and far better than trying to naturalize unwilling foreigners.

Our good Montevidean neighbours were in hopes of seeing and hearing both Sir Vincent Barrington and Mr. Herbert Ward before their return to England; and the disappointment in English circles is great. Don't fret, 'vecinos'; both the distinguished visitors will be in the Plate again next year.

With great regret, we announce the death, from lung disease, of Mr. William J. Hammill Jones, of the Commercial Bank, and belonging to a well-known and long resident English family. The sad event took place at the "quinta" about 3 a.m. yesterday, and was the foregone conclusion of a long and painful illness. Mr. Jones leaves a widow (née Dutton) and two young children.—Montevideo Times.

Mr. Harrison's little game of brag in the recent trouble with Chile, says the Chicago Times, has cost the country 5,000,000 dols. The taxpayers ought to demand a full indemnity of him when he comes up for re-election.

We note that the financial chaos in Brazil has forced our esteemed contemporary the Rio News to raise its subscription rates.

The Argentine political exiles in Montevideo have changed their minds and will not publish anything there, as they at first intended. This is wise. No use in throwing more oil on the fire.

Here's somethiug not exactly flattering to our Australian cousins:—"A native Australian prophesies that the Australian white man of the coming race will be tall, thin, greedy and pushing, grabbing as he goes, carrying all before him and enriching himself. He will be talented intellectually in a coarse, hard way, and will be an expert rider and swimmer. In 500 years the white race in Australia will have run out altogether. The toughest statement made by Mr. Murray, however, in regard to this strange, rich country is that it is the wickedest country on the globe in respect to crimes against person and property, and in respect to drunkenness. In the latter shortcoming we are told that it beats even Switzerland. New South Wales contains the most rascals from the business standpoint, and Queensland the most drunkards."

There is an election of provincial Senators and Deputies to-day in that interesting part of the Republic known as Santa Fé, and the state of siege will be raised for the occasion.

The kind Lord Mayor has ordered linen suits for winter for all the "peonada" in Municipal employment. The men protest that they cannot see where the laugh comes in; although they know and feel that there is a joke somewhere in the matter.

We are glad to see that Mrs. Columbus is not to be forgotten on the 400th centenary of her great husband's great discovery. An exchange says:—"A chivalrous man desires that Mrs. Columbus be not forgotten by the World's Fair women managers. To help awaken an interest and lift Mrs. C. out of the obscurity in which her name is now enveloped, the chivalrous man tells us that she was a

Dear Sirs—
"I have tried HAYWARD'S "A. ASTE" DIP on my Sheep, and have pleasure in bearing testimony to ITS EFFICACY AS A DIP. I need have no hesitation in recommending it generally as a Cure for Scab, without discolouring or damaging the Wool.
The "A. ASTE" is in my opinion preferable to the Powder, and will probably have a larger sale than the latter."
Yours very truly
(Signed)
JOHN KELLIE.

It has been proved by many important Estancieros that HAYWARD'S PASTE is more convenient to use than any other Dip, being already mixed and dissolving in any kind of water. It makes a smooth soapy bath which adheres well to the Fleece and leaves the wool clean and soft.

ON 'CHANGE.

Wednesday, April 13th.

This was virtually liquidation day on 'Change and the settlement was more important than expected. Last night all looked forward to a fall in gold this morning, but gold ran short owing to bearish overspeculation, and ounces and sovereigns rose buoyantly. Twenty thousand ounces were sold at the first ring: the price opened at $55.10, rose to 55.50, and closed at 55.40, say nearly 240½% premium. Seventeen hundred sovereigns changed hands at 17.13 to 17.20, say 241¼% premium. The market closed slightly firm at these rates. The rise in gold was partly explained by the slight scare caused by the yellow fever case in the Boca and the rumour that wool advices from Europe were no longer favourable. There was an utter absence of any sensational political "canards," the favourite dish to stimulate a rise in a bearishly inclined market.

Patriotic Bonds fell away headlong to 58 this morning. The stock opened with a faint attempt at firmness at 58.70, but the market was topheavy and prices toppled to 58. Considering the interest payable on this loan and all the tangible guarantees with which it is surrounded, the present price looks very cheap. The slow progress of the subscription to the first series of the capital of the Banco de la Nacion Argentina is a blow to the Patriotic stock.

Old Gas shares were steady at 63. Catalinas looked weak at 7. National Cedulas were again very firm; National 5 advanced to 86—a rise of six points since yesterday morning. National C rose to 84½.

Owing to the departure of the R.M.S. Clyde, which took a heavy exchange mail, exchange was very quiet to-day. The next steamer will be the Nord America, posted to leave on Monday; owing to the holidays, little business will be transacted.

Discounts continue difficult.

The following is a summary of the business effected in stocks and shares at the first ring to-day:—

Mr. W. R. Grant, the well-known estanciero, sends a splendid consignment of fine stock to England by the steamer Tuscany. The consignment with regard to quality can compare with the best sent forward up to date. He ships 29 mestizo steers, 25 do. horses and 130 Lincoln wethers. The Hippomenes takes also an important consignment of live stock.

The whole market was talking of the Report of the Joint Stock Companies Official Committee on the famous Puerto y Malecon del Norte Co. that was launched to transform the north end on the river bank. We publish a summary of the report in our leading columns. The comments of the market were varied.

A lot of fine steers were sold this morning at the Corrales at the rate of 85$ p/p each "carne y sebo:" the hides were sold at the rate of 9$.

It is stated that the proposed branch of the Leibig factory in this country will be erected in the province of Buenos Ayres. The original intention was to start the branch in Santa Fe or Entre Rios, but this was abandoned, and Buenos Ayres gets the preference.

Cheques of the Provincial Bank were quoted to-day at 5½% discount: those of the National Bank at 30% discount. Bonos of the La Plata Mortgage Bank were done at 114.

Several influential capitalists of Dolores in the province of Buenos Ayres have joined to start the Banco Comercial de Dolores with a capital of one million dollars in 5,000 shares of 200$ each. The first issue of 1250 shares, say 250,000$, has already been taken up.

Mr. Melchor G. Rom writes as follows in his weekly Economista Argentino:—

"Even supposing that we had State Banks, solidly organized and free from the danger of violating the laws, the existence of private banks would always be most useful, since, being well conducted, they collect the savings of a large portion of the community and assist trade and industry. In a cosmopolitan country like ours, where the foreign community is so large, it is necessary that people of a given nationality have their own bank, which inspires them with confidence, and which attracts savings that otherwise would be hoarded. These private banks, moreover, contribute to the strength and prosperity of the State-banks, for bankers as a rule always endeavor to minimise unproductive capital and deposit the surplus of disposable money in those State-banks that inspire confidence. The same may be said of the banks of minor magnitude in railway, which was progressing day by day, than to be holders of dead bonds which could not have the interest paid on them. Referring to the future, he said they had received a telegram giving them the result of the first month's working, which to a certain extent was disappointing, although it was hardly to be expected that the railway, considering the state it was in, should start with the wheels greased and do as well as if it had been in the best condition. The receipts for the first month were $60,000 of currency. They had no other record since the end of the year 1890, when the receipts from the main line and the extensions were $42,000 for the month. Of course the $62,000 converted into sovereigns at the high rate of exchange now ruling would give but a poor result, but they had had no time to revise the tariffs and otherwise improve the earning power of the line. He believed that with time and careful administration they would be successful in bringing that railway into something like working order. In conclusion, he moved the following resolution in order to comply with the requirements of the Stock Exchange Committee, namely: "That article 81 of the articles of association be omitted, and the following article substituted therefor:—The qualification of a director shall be the holding of preference shares of the nominal amount of £1,000, and ordinary shares of the nominal amount of £1,000 of the company. A first director may act before acquiring his qualification, but shall in any case acquire the same within one month from his appointment, and unless he shall do so be shall be deemed to have agreed to take the said shares from the company, and the same shall be forthwith allotted to him accordingly."

Mr. Frank Parish seconded the resolution, which was agreed to unanimously.

A vote of thanks to the chairman terminated the proceedings.

Mr. N. Calvo sold to-day at auction in the Corrales the following animals:—

117 cows at $23.50 to $25 m/n, various buyers.
59 do at $34 to 40, do.
